PROPOSAL EXPLAINED: Attorney Casper Nighohossian points to one of the many road improvements suggested by the chamber's traffic committee.

Road 'wish list' presented

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Quad City political and business leaders presented an ambitious "wish list" of road improvements to Illinois Department of Transportation officials Tuesday at Charlie's Restaurant.

They got back a blitz of slide projections and explanations of IDOT's budget problems, showing that prospects are remote for much of the wish list.

The Traffic Committee of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, including the mayors of Granite City, Madison, Venice and Pontoon Beach and local township supervisors, has been meeting with business leaders for the last few months to draw up its list of 29 improvements. The committee and other local leaders were present Tuesday.

In an overview to the committee's presentation to IDOT, Richard Bush, executive vice president of the chamber, called the condition of local roads, bridges and railroad crossings "a deterrent to economic development and a safety hazard."

Keith Jensen, attorney for the Village of Pontoon Beach, was more specific: "Our growth and development are stymied until we get our transportation problems solved."

Casper Nighohossian, Madison city attorney, used a pointer and

Madison considers new tax

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

MADISON — The City Council, faced with rising taxes, is trying to figure out the fairest and most politically palatable way of doing it.

For the city to fully meet its obligations and proposals would require about $50,000 from its share of yearly property taxes, Comptroller Rick Tuika told the mayor and council in a special session Monday.

With $185,628 extended for the

School Board must replace Rich soon

GRANITE CITY — The Board of Education has two weeks to find a replacement for former board member Ranney Rich, Superintendent Gib Walmsley said Wednesday.

Walmsley said he had been informed by William Schooley, the district's attorney, of a new state law that sets the following guidelines:

If the board does not make an appointment by Wednesday, Sept. 14, Madison County Regional Superintendent Harry Briggs Jr. would be given 15 days to make an appointment.

If Briggs did not make an appointment within that period, the seat would remain vacant until the November 1989 election. No special election would be held.

Rich resigned Monday for "personal reasons."

Weed problem growing

By Marva Collins
Correspondent

VENICE — Mayor Tyrone Echols advised Police Chief Farris Smith and aldermen Tuesday night that he had found weeds that were 12 to 14 feet high on properties of absentee owners. Complaints are being received about the problem, he said.

Echols instructed Smith to prepare to file charges and seek the levying of fines against such property owners, so the city will no longer be regarded as "a paper tiger" in enforcing anti-weed rules.

"These weeds are not only an eyesore but, at their worst, are a health hazard," the mayor said.

Echols advised City Council members that meetings with the Illinois Department of Transportation had proved fruitful for the city of Venice, in that the Broadway overpass improvement bids will be opened in December. Work on this project can commence in the spring of 1989, he said.

John Ervin, 3rd Ward alderman, was given unanimous permission to call for bids on city acquisition of a new truck. Echols asked that the bid manager for the city-owned McKinley Bridge be asked to handle purchasing of the truck.

Jerry Costello, newly-elected congressman in the 21st Illinois District, was a surprise guest at the council meeting. He said, "I just stopped to let everyone know I'm here to be of service to the people."

'Favorites' voting ends today

Today is the last day to get a ballot to vote for your St. Louis Favorites.

Suburban Journal readers will determine their favorite waitress, teacher, Cardinal and others by filling out the ballot inside today's issue.

Ballots must be postmarked no later than Tuesday, Sept. 6.

Those receiving the most votes in each category will be featured in the special Old Newsbox Day edition of the Suburban Journals on Nov. 17.

Teachers would walk Tuesday

Strike deadline here

GRANITE CITY — Unless a contract agreement is reached this afternoon, teachers will strike Tuesday, the day after Labor Day.

Union president Shirley Stoll said Tuesday it would take "a miracle" to reach an agreement before the deadline.

"Maybe some miracle will happen (today)," Stoll said. "That would be wonderful. But time's running out."

Today's session would be the fifth since negotiations began two weeks ago. Stoll said little progress has been made because the school board's negotiating team has not been authorized to discuss finances.

That authorization came Wednesday night at a special school board meeting, and finances are expected to be the topic of today's session.

Last week, the Granite City Federation of Teachers voted to begin striking Sept. 6, following

Huck's killer Arnett gets life

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — Gene H. Arnett, Granite City, was sentenced to spend his natural life in prison following a surprise guilty plea late Wednesday afternoon to first-degree murder, attempted murder and two counts of armed robbery.

Arnett pleaded guilty in Madison County Court to the Oct. 22 robbery and fatal beating of Nagey J. Bennett, a clerk at Huck's Convenient Store, 4086 Pontoon Road, Pontoon Beach.

Associate Judge Charles Romani Jr. gave the life sentence for the murder and a 40-year sentence for armed robbery in connection with that case.

The natural life sentence makes Arnett ineligible for parole, authorities said.

Bennett, 29, mother of two children, was found severely ty Hospital.

Arnett also pleaded guilty to attempted murder and armed robbery in the Nov. 19 shooting and serious wounding of Michael Snodgrass, an attendant at the Clark Service Station, 3051 Washington Ave.

Arnett was sentenced by Romani to 40 years on each of those charges, with the sentences to run concurrently.

"We were really pleased with the way Bob Trone (assistant

By Valerie Evenden

GRANITE CITY — Area labor leaders, key state and local political dignitaries and stirring band music will lead representatives of more than 30 AFL-CIO union locals in the traditional Labor Day parade in Granite City on Monday, Sept. 5.

"We welcome with open arms all labor people who want to join us in the parade," Roger A. Hoover, president of the Tri-Cities Area Trades and Labor Council, said Tuesday.

The Granite City High School Band will spearhead the march along Madison Avenue.

Dunbar parade Saturday

MADISON — The Dunbar School Alumni Association is set for a Labor Day weekend reunion, including a parade starting at 11 a.m. Saturday from the former Dunbar School grounds.

Persons desiring to participate in the Dunbar neighborhood parade will begin assembling at 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

Former Dunbar students have started to arrive here from other cities and states for the holiday festivities, which will include:

• "There will be a chance to meet and great old friends" and former students following the parade. The gathering is planned for 2 to 5 p.m.

• Coronation of a new Miss Dunbar Alumni will take place at 9 p.m. Saturday at Engelbert Hall, 10th Street and Washington Avenue, Madison.

• A reunion banquet will be held Sunday at the Collinsville Holiday Inn (former Hilton Inn).

Tickets are still available for the coronation and banquet events. Alumni President Vernell Jackson said. Reservations can be made at the "meet and greet" session.

Actions follow accidents near school

By Paul Guggina
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Three young girls were injured in the past week in accidents near Granite City High School, and at least one resident says steps must be taken to avoid a tragedy.

Roy Koberna, a Granite City police officer and a member of the Board of Education, is organizing a task force to gain public support for a pedestrian overpass at the intersection of Nameoki Road and Jill Avenue.

"We've got to show that there's a lot of community interest in it," Koberna said Wednesday. Koberna wants to petition area legislators to help sway the Illinois Department of Transportation toward approving the overpass, which would probably cost the city between $40,000 and $60,000.

Christina Cahill, 11, Robin J. Schubert, 12, and Angela Tisdale, 14, were injured after being hit by cars in two separate accidents.

Cahill and Schubert were hit by a car Aug. 25 while crossing Nameoki at Jill.

Tisdale was hit by a car yesterday while she was walking near the entrance to the student parking lot of the high school.

None of the girls were injured seriously.

The area around the school is the site of several accidents each year, Koberna said. Police often receive complaints about students crossing Nameoki Road in large groups, he said.

"With a little help from the people who do all the complaining, maybe we can do something out there," he said.

While in Springfield on unrelated school business, Koberna met with an IDOT official who said the state would pay up to 75 percent of the cost of an overpass, which costs between $150,000 and $250,000.

Koberna said IDOT approval isn't likely unless the community voices its opinion.

"Once we look like an organized group, they would sit up and take notice," he said.

He is asking anyone who wants to be on the task force to contact him either through the police station or the school board office.

Jaywalking tickets to be issued today

GRANITE CITY — Police will begin issuing jaywalking tickets today to jaywalkers going to and from the high school, Superintendent Gib Walmsley said Wednesday.

Three students have been injured after being hit by cars in two traffic accidents at the school in the past week.

The fine for jaywalking ranges up to $50, said Roy Koberna, a Granite City police officer and a member of the Board of Education.

ACCIDENT AT HIGH SCHOOL: Emergency personnel prepare to transport Angela Tisdale, 14, 2106 E. 24th St., to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where she was admitted with serious injuries, after she was struck by a pickup truck Wednesday afternoon at about 12:25 in front of Granite City High School. Shelly Shafer, 17, 3710 Illinois 111, was driving the truck in the parking lot exit lane that parallels Madison Avenue when Tisdale walked into it, according to the police report.

state's attorney) handled the case for us," said Pontoon Beach Police Chief Bob Ballew. "His (Arnett's) plea and sentencing today (Wednesday) was a surprise. We were in Springfield at the crime lab when I got the call at 2 p.m. telling me to get back down here, as he was going to make a plea. I think it was really good," Ballew said.

The timing of Wednesday's courtroom events apparently was not expected by Granite City Police Lt. Don Knight, who was in charge of the Clark Service Station case.

"It was a surprise to me when I got the call about 12:30 p.m. today. I thought we were going to try him," Knight said.

Wednesday night.

Granite City police arrested Arnett on Nov. 19 shortly after the Clark station robbery.

Arnett was convicted of murder June 21 for the shotgun killing of Todd Scrump, 21, Granite City, and was sentenced on Aug. 18 to serve 40 years.

Scrump, a student, was shot while driving on Interstate 270 north of Granite City.

•Taxes

1987 tax year (1988 collection), an 85 percent increase in the municipal tax levy is among the ideas being considered.

In order to get that much from real estate taxes, it would be necessary to raise the present tax rate of $1.35 on each $100 of assessed value, perhaps by as much as $1.14 to a new total of $2.49. Mayor John Belloff and all of the aldermen were extremely reluctant to do that.

"There is no way we can go the 85 percent," Belloff said; "no way we can put that burden on the people of this community."

City Council members agreed, and began discussing alternative ways of raising more money, such as re-instituting water and telephone taxes abolished in 1984. Most said they felt that would be fairer because it would put some of the tax burden on renters, who constitute about 25 percent of the population of Madison.

The contribution to the police pension fund could be maintained at its current level of about $24,000, or $29,000 less than the $53,000 that is projected to be needed, officials said.

Major tax levy increases also have been proposed for liability insurance. Rising from $32,837 to $135,200, and Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund contributions, increasing from $80,160 to $100,000.

The council came to no decisions, other than to vote to get estimates from the telephone company and the water company on how much income would be realized from enacting taxes on those utilities. City officials said they want to obtain the opinions of voters before proceeding.

A decision must be made by Dec. 13 in order to comply with the Illinois law, which requires cities to publish by that date their intent to raise taxes by 5 percent or more.

Firefighters' car wash on Saturday

Granite City Firefighters Local 253 will hold its annual benefit car wash Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the main fire station, 2300 Madison Ave. Cars will cost $4, and trucks and vans will cost $5; additional contributions also will be welcomed.

All proceeds will go to Muscular Dystrophy and the Jerry Lewis Labor Day weekend telethon. Local 253 Pres. Art Asadorian said.

News in review

"News in review" provides a summary of top stories from the area. The column is designed to assist out-of-town readers who do not receive the Sunday and Wednesday newspapers:

Charges against three dropped

EDWARDSVILLE — Silence filled the courtroom late Friday afternoon when all charges against Granite City 4th Ward Alderman Dan Parney and police Sgts. Dave Rosenberg and Jim Reader were dropped.

Prior to Judge James K. Donovan's entry, defense lawyers had warned the crowd of friends and family to remain silent and seated no matter what was said.

"It's over for you now, so just wait," Melroy B. Hutnick, Rosenberg's attorney, told Melia Rosenberg, Dave Rosenberg's wife.

The three were first indicted separately Jan. 29, but charges were later dropped by State's Attorney Dick Allen for "technical flaws. Allen requested the appointment of Clyde Kuehn as special prosecutor on July 7 and Kuehn filed joint charges July 8.

Madison landfill operator gives city police car

MADISON — The company that operates the city's landfill has given the city $10,000 police car and will deliver another just like it in November. The 1988 Chevrolet Caprice 9C1 (a special police package) from Novotny Chevrolet was delivered Thursday.

Richard T. Kogler, district landfill manager for Waste Management of North America Inc., and Mayor John Belloff said the subject of the city's need for new police cars came up during negotiations between the two men over the sale of a 137-acre parcel of land by the city to WMI.

One day later, Kogler telephoned Belloff to tell him he had obtained approval for the deal.

Kogler said the company considered the donation a good investment for a couple of reasons. The company has a lot of heavy equipment at its landfill on Illinois 203 behind Gateway Midstate Truck Plaza at the city's edge.

Granite City, Venice board members resign

GRANITE CITY — Ranney Rich, a Granite City Board of Education member since July 1987, has resigned his position for "personal reasons."

Rich was not present at a special school board meeting Monday night when his written resignation was accepted by the board.

In a telephone interview following the meeting, Rich declined to explain his departure.

Rich was appointed to the board last year following the resignation of Alan Crider. His term was to expire in November 1988.

In Venice, Phillip White has replaced David Levy on the school board.

Levy resigned because he moved to Pontoon Beach and was no longer a resident of the Venice school district.

White, an Illinois-American Water Co. employee, was appointed to replace Levy by Board President Wilbert Glasper.

Gaffner's resume cited, military duty questioned

WASHINGTON — Republican congressional candidate Robert Gaffner's opponent said Aug. 23 that Gaffner's resume inaccurately implies that he fought in the Korean War. Gaffner's military duty took place no farther west than Hawaii.

In his six-page biography, Gaffner, the GOP 21st District hopeful, inserted under the heading of military service the following description: "Korean Conflict, United States Air Force 1951-1953, Honorable Discharge."

Gaffner, a four-time candidate for the seat, said his authorized resume accurately reflects his military record despite the fact that the closest he got to Korea was the islands of Hawaii.

Democratic Rep. Jerry Costello, who narrowly beat Gaffner in the Aug. 9 special election, said he believed the resume was misleading.

"I did think he served in Korea based on his resume," Costello said, adding, however, that he prefers that the resume flap not become an issue in the second race with Gaffner.

Granite City downtown project moving quietly along

By Alan Ortals
Economic development
director, Granite City

GRANITE CITY — The old saying, "Still waters run deep," is certainly true in the case of downtown Granite City. While the summer months have passed with little publicity, much progress has been made of which people should be aware.

In June, more than 100 volunteers helped us garner almost 15,000 letters to Wal-Mart Chairman Sam Walton. Those letters were hand-delivered by a contingent of governmental and business leaders.

In a lengthy and very productive meeting, Wal-Mart representatives were flattered by Granite City's enthusiasm, interested in what it had to say and promised to give Granite City full consideration.

Since then, Wal-Mart has informed us its executive committee will consider the Granite City development at its December meeting.

In July, the state Legislature passed an amendment to the Tax Increment Finance law. Strongly supported by Sen. Sam Vadalabene and Rep. Sam Wolf, it virtually guarantees rebates of state sales tax on TIF developments for the next 20 years. It will enable the Granite City downtown project to pay for itself.

While most attention is paid to the shopping center portion of the downtown redevelopment plan, creating a more attractive environment was also a major objective. In a few weeks, construction will begin on streetscape improvements in the 1300 block of Niedringhaus Avenue.

New sidewalks, curbs, streetlights, trees and benches will be installed on the south side of the avenue between Delmar and Edison avenues. Construction is scheduled to be completed before the end of the year.

As tax increments and Community Development Block Grants become available, improvements of this model block will be extended.

City officials express optimism regarding the eventual success of the downtown development plan. Several factors are cited in support of this attitude:

- The improvement of the Tax Increment Finance program;
- The change to Leo Eisenberg Co. as project developer. Eisenberg is the second largest developer of shopping centers in the country and has extensive experience with Wal-Mart;

- Wal-Mart's response. It is familiar with and has been successful with developing in deteriorated downtown locations. One of Wal-Mart's most successful stores is located in the Tax Increment Finance District of downtown East Peoria, and the Wood River store has performed well.

Because of the work done over the past three years, the planned redevelopment only lacks a commitment from an anchor tenant. A positive response from Wal-Mart is all that is needed to make the long-awaited development a reality.

Five Star plans Caribbean cruise

The Five Star Club of Central Bank has planned a seven-day Caribbean cruise aboard the Commodore Lines' MS Caribe 1, departing Jan. 21, 1989, from Miami.

Las Vegas-style revues, Caribbean singers, magicians and a posh casino are just a few of the shipboard activities offered.

Ports of call include St. Thomas, San Juan, St. John and Puerto Plata.

The cost is $1,050 per person double occupancy and includes air fare to Miami and 28 meals, the organizers said.

A few cabins are available for the cruise. Interested persons may call Emylee at 451-6423.

SEMC changes Well Baby dates

St. Elizabeth Medical Center, 2100 Madison Ave., has announced that changes will be made in the format of the Well Baby Clinic.

"The Well Baby Clinic will now be held on the first and third Tuesday of every month in Suite 200 of the Medical Arts Building, starting Sept. 6," said Maxine Johnson, administrative assistant for SEMC's Nursing Services.

"Also, instead of being on a first come, first served basis, we will set up appointments. To make an appointment, persons may call 798-3700."

The Well Baby Clinic is designed to provide checkups for children in low-income families. The clinic provides intensive checks on the growth and development of babies during the first year of life. It also provides school physical examinations for children entering kindergarten and the fifth and ninth grades.

"Jackie Haug, a pediatric nurse practitioner, sees the children. The clinic is not for sick kids. We set up appointments for sick children at a separate time. The Well Baby Clinic is designed to keep them healthy," Johnson said.

Zoning changes outlined at Madison City Council

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

MADISON — Proposed zoning changes and additions were outlined for the City Council by a representative of the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission on Aug. 23.

SWMRPC representative Tim Tolliver proposed the following:

- The creation of an Agricultural District, consisting of undeveloped land, some of which is already used for farming, along Illinois 203 south of Horseshoe Lake.

- The creation of a Limited Business District in some areas now zoned residential.

- Rezoning of Gateway Midstate Truck Stop and the parcel adjacent to it north of the truck stop from Industrial to Community Business.

- Rezoning of 26 lots fronting the west side of McCambridge Avenue (between Third Street and the west side of Sken Street) and five lots on the northeast corner of Fifth Street and McCambridge Avenue from One-Family Residential to Limited Business.

- Zoning of McKinley Terrace subdivision to One-Family Residential, with the exception of seven lots to be zoned Limited Business.

- The prohibition of "stockade" type fences on residential lots. Also, all swimming pools with a depth greater than 24 inches would have to be enclosed by 4-foot fences with self-latching gates, to make them inaccessible to small children.

The council will meet again with Tolliver to discuss reasons for the proposed changes, and a public hearing on them will be held on a date not yet determined.

In other action relating to zoning, Mayor John Belicoff reappointed Curtis Bosworth, 1656 Fourth St., to a seven-year term on the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Arrest made following incident on Ill. 203

Charles J. Fetter, 24, 1715 Garfield Ave., was booked on two charges of assault and a charge of reckless conduct, following an incident at 11 p.m. Aug. 26 on Illinois 203.

A 16-year-old Granite City driver told police she was driving south on Illinois 203 when an auto came up behind her car and the driver slammed on the brakes, losing control of his car and running off the roadway.

The car, described as a blue Mustang, then followed her vehicle trying to force her off the road until she stopped the car at Venice Avenue, she alleged.

The driver of the Mustang got out and ran up to her car, yelling at her that she had pulled out in front of him, the girl driver said.

She alleged he tried to open a door of her vehicle; it was locked. He then began hitting and kicking the door and also punching at the window, she said. The girl got her car started and drove home, reporting the incident to her father.

The girl and a younger sister, 13, who was a passenger, were visibly shaken, according to their father, who informed police. Two young cousins, 5 and 2 years old, also were in the vehicle, reports said.

At 1:25 a.m. Aug. 27, an officer saw a car, matching the description of the vehicle in the earlier incident, entering the parking area at the former Kroger store, 3305 Nameoki Road. The driver, later identified as Fetter, allegedly was driving fast, causing the vehicle to fishtail from side to side, reports said.

Fetter halted and was charged with reckless driving, improper use of a registration and failure to have a city sticker. He also was booked on the assault and reckless conduct charges relating to the earlier incident.

Wallet gone from car

Equalizer, speaker stolen

Kenneth J. Davis, 22, 4140 Division St., Pontoon Beach, reported Aug. 26 that a thief entered his car parked outside the Graceland Bowl, 3701 Nameoki Road, and stole a graphic equalizer valued at $90 and a three-way speaker worth $20. The thief also had removed the radio from the dashboard, but it was left in the vehicle.

Battery by youth alleged

Christopher W. Morris, 17, 2549 Westmoreland Drive, reported Aug. 26 that while his car was stopped at Nameoki and Fehling averse, an unknown youth came up to his car and began striking him in the face.

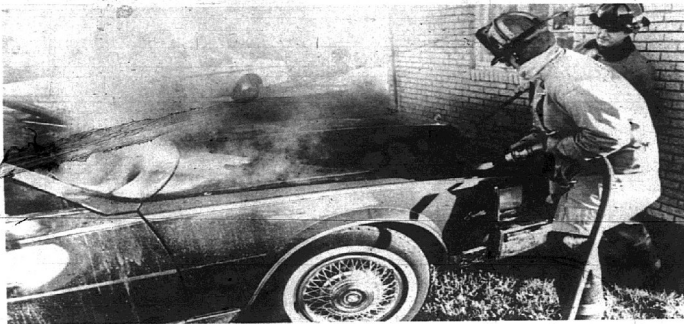

The youth, 16, was located by police, but denied hitting Morris. A complaint was signed and he was booked for battery and released to his mother on a notice to appear for a hearing.

Radar detector taken

Evan Davis, 41, 2429 Wilson Ave., reported the burglary Aug. 28 of a radar detector from his car parked in the 2000 block of Delmar Avenue.

Car damaged by bike

Sheila R. Crews, 25, 1 Briarcliff, reported her car parked in her driveway had been damaged. Police found a bicycle on the hood of the car, the car's windshield shattered, and the hood cowl, right fender and radio antenna damaged. The bicycle was taken as evidence.

UNDER INVESTIGATION: Dense smoke rises as Granite City firefighter Mike Richardson sprays water under the hood of a car on fire at 1501 State St. last week. The car, a 1984 Cadillac Seville owned by Ranney Rich, was parked outside the Rich Oil Co. office and was destroyed. Its value was estimated at $14,000. The cause of the fire is unknown and Granite City police are investigating. In the background is firefighter Gene Mullen. (Staff photo by Patrick Foley)

Darla S. Rea, 26, 4055 Bruene Ave., suffered major injuries in an accident on Nameoki Road at Garfield Avenue at 6:11 p.m. Aug. 25. Witnesses said Rea pulled out of a parking lot and across Nameoki Road toward Garfield Avenue and drove into the path of a car driven by James W. Long, 46, Edwardsville, that was northbound on Nameoki Road.

The force of the collision pushed Rea's car against a car driven by Angelina Macios, 60, 1520 Garfield Ave., that was stopped on Garfield Avenue. Rea was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center by Granite City Ambulance.

Clothing worth $300 gone

Sharon Thompson, 2741 Dale Ave., reported the theft of several loads of clothes, valued at $300, from the dryers at the Scoutwash laundromat, 3204 Nameoki Road, while she and her two daughters were next door at a clothing store.

Multiple traffic offenses charged against man

Charles David Hollis, 26, 1737 Venice Ave., was arrested at 8:20 p.m. Aug. 24 and charged with driving while his license was revoked and reckless driving.

He was also arrested on warrants for fleeing and attempting to elude, driving with a revoked license and riding a motorcycle without special equipment. At 4:07 p.m. Donna Davis, 36, 1728 Venice Ave., reported that Hollis had driven his car down Venice Avenue at high speed, slammed on the brakes and skidded sideways.

She reported that as she began to scold Hollis, Jeffery Allen Miller, 25, 2808 Saratoga Ave., began yelling at her. She reported being frightened and going inside her home to call police. Miller was contacted by police and arrested.

SIU police win safety belt award

The Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Police won the Silver Safety Belt Award for the second consecutive year from the Illinois Coalition For Safety Belt Use.

The award was presented recently in Peoria to University Police Chief Charles R. McDonald at a joint meeting of the Illinois Chiefs of Police and the Illinois Sheriffs' associations. The coalition is a not-for-profit organization dedicated to increasing safety belt use.

The SIUE department was honored for its "exemplary safety belt program" which included promotion of safety belt use at the university's Health Fair using Vince and Larry ("seat belt crash dummies"), and literature and brief lectures, stencilled "Buckled Up" messages on all campus entrances; enlisting help from the university Religious Center to distribute "Buckle Up" materials; and inviting "Clicker and Bear" to the university Early Childhood Center, distributing stickers to children.

The award, established in 1986, was presented by Lois Robinson, the coalition's executive director. Robinson said the department had "demonstrated... genuine concern for the safety of the citizens of the community."

"Your efforts will help improve the quality of life at the SIUE campus... We hope other police departments will conduct similar programs to encourage safety belt use on Illinois roadways."

Division leaders preparing for United Way campaign

Paul Racziewicz, general chairman of the 1988 Tri-Cities Area United Way campaign, has announced his leaders for the upcoming fund-raising drive.

"I'm very pleased with the people selected to head the campaign divisions this year. They are all enthusiastic people who know the importance of community involvement," Racziewicz said.

The fund drive will begin Tuesday, Sept. 13, at the Amvets Hall in Madison. Money raised will be used to assist in the support of 22 local health and human care agencies.

DREW KARANDJEFF, chairman of Central Banc System Inc., will be the vice chairman for the 1988 United Way campaign. He is an experienced United Way volunteer who has served on the board and executive committee and as a past division leader.

His other community involvement includes: board and executive committee of the Coro Foundation and the Southwestern Illinois Leadership Council, past president of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce and Granite City Rotary Club, and past director of the Chamber, Robert Morris Associates, Regional Commerce and Growth Association, and Mental Health Services of Madison County.

Drew Karandjeff was born and raised in Granite City, and graduated from Illinois Wesleyan University. He holds bachelor of arts and bachelor of science degrees and graduated from the American Institute of Foreign Trade.

He served with the U.S. Army in Germany. He and his wife, Joni, have two children, Andrew and Kelly.

MARY JESSEE has been chosen to lead Division A, consisting of business and commercial interests.

A longtime supporter of and volunteer for the United Way, she has served in a number of capacities, including board and executive committee, allocations member and communications chairman.

She holds a lifetime membership in the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers and is active in the Old Six Mile Historical Society.

Mrs. Jessee is a charter member and past president of the Women's Division of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, serving currently as an Ambassador.

MELVIN WILMSMEYER, chairman and president of Magna Bank of Granite City, will be leading Division B, the professional population.

He joined Magna Bank in 1965 when it was the First Granite City National Bank, after serving three years in the U.S. Marine Corps and holding positions with the Comptroller of the Currency in Washington, D.C.

His various community activities have included serving as past president and campaign chairman of the United Way, chairman of the Tri-City Regional Port District board, and board member of the Chamber of Commerce.

Home run match program helps United Way funding

United Ways in Madison County, in cooperation with the St. Louis Baseball Cardinals, offered the chance this season to sponsor a designated Cardinal hitter.

For each home run hit by the particular batter, it was possible to pledge $100 to the Tri-Cities Area United Way.

Prospective contributors were told, "Here's an opportunity to support United Way youth agencies from your advertising/public relations budget."

"Mike Schmidt of the Philadelphia Phillies, regarded as certain to be a future baseball Hall of Fame member, originated this special program."

"Schmidt selects the designated hitter for each National League team participating in the program."

"Our United Way designated hitter for the 1988 season is Bob Horner. Horner is on the disabled list for the remainder of the season, but hit three homers this year. So your 1988 commitment is $300."

"What will you get for your $100 per homer?"

"Scoreboard promotion for each home run hit by our designated hitter."

"Sponsoring firms will be listed in next season's scoreboard with an explanation of the program."

"A press conference for the sponsoring firms with the designated hitter."

"On-the-field presentation of your check to United Way in a pre-game ceremony on Sept. 7."

"An autographed baseball from our designated hitter."

"A tax deduction because your check goes to the United Way."

"Where else can you get public recognition for your firm to an area-wide audience of more than 40,000 people for $100?"

"What better way to promote your firm than a listing in the Cardinals' scoreboard?"

"Join us Sept. 7 for United Way Night at Busch Stadium. Meet Bob Horner and Mike Schmidt and present your check to the United Way at the ball park."

Lost In This Space

By Andy Siering

No laughing matter

I am not going to attempt to be humorous today. I have seen something so appalling that I feel compelled to talk about it, and humor in this context would be as appropriate as telling dead-baby jokes at an infant's funeral.

I refer to the Morton Downey Jr. Show, which airs locally on Channel 2. It is part of a burgeoning genre known as "shock TV." It is no laughing matter. If this is the future of television, God help us all.

Downey is the son of Morton Downey Jr., a popular radio crooner of years ago, but Junior's song is not sweet. He makes Gerald Rivera look like the very soul of reason and restraint. To give you a rough idea of Downey's approach, commercials for the show bill him as "Mighty Mouth."

Downey's show originated as a local New York City program. "I come to conquer — and divide this city," Downey smirks on what is apparently a commercial left over from those days.

Now he has gone national with his divisive poison.

The spots tout the show as "a liberal dose of conservative opinion," and Downey claims to be a God-fearing patriot. I say he is a rabble-rousing demagogue who appeals to people's fears instead of their intellects, their resentments and prejudices instead of their hopes.

If Adolf Hitler had a TV show, it would resemble this sideshow billed as a talk show.

But it's not at all accurate to call this a talk show. It's a screaming show. If you haven't seen it, there is one detail that sums it up. Podiums are placed in the audience so audience members can speak their piece.

On the face of the podiums and on the curtain behind the stage is the likeness of a mouth open wide. These podiums are called the loud mouths.

Let's hear what you think," Downey will tell the audience members. Burly aides guard the loud mouths, which is not surprising, given the inflammatory nature of the show.

Downey is not at all interested in getting at the truth. He presents flat-out lies as facts and then doesn't let guests respond. For instance, the night I watched he made the statement that the movie "The Last Temptation of Christ" had Jesus saying to Mary Magdalene in the notorious dream sequence, "God sleeps between your thighs."

When a guest tried to explain that the line in question was indeed part of the original script but does not appear in the movie, Downey shouted him down. He controls the microphone, you see. He is not inclined to relinquish it.

He says totally nonsensical things, including the liberal commie-pink press for the making of "Last Temptation."

The studio audience eats this stuff up. When they're not busy trying to maneuver in front of the camera to flex their biceps.

I do not believe even Downey believes what he says. I think his only real devotion is to his ratings, not to truth, not to justice, fairness, God or Nation.

Downey has assaulted guests on the show. The night I watched he limited himself to repeatedly pointing his finger in a guest's face while shouting him down and calling him names that are unprintable in this paper.

I guarantee you one thing: Downey would get to point a finger in my face just once. After that, I promise you he would have to use a different name.

Ah, but there I go, falling into his trap. This is what Downey wants. He doesn't want rationality and fair argument. He only wants to inflame passions. He appeals to our worst instincts.

There are enough hatemongers out there without giving one a national soapbox. I fear that if Downey meets with success, he will spawn imitators of every warped political, religious and racial stripe. If the airwaves become an electronic battleground, how long before the violence spills over into the real world?

Downey reminds me of Father James Coughlin, the rabid, red-baiting anti-Semite of radio decades ago. Both hid their venom behind the flag and a crucifix. Coincidentally, both were Irish Catholics.

I do not mean to insult all Irish, all Catholics — or all conservatives for that matter. But Morton Downey Jr., like Coughlin, is a hateful snake. What is needed is a St. Patrick of the airwaves to drive him back under whatever rock he crawled from.

Madison County sheriff deputies and the U.S. Occupational Safety and Health Administration are investigating.

Parade

Rolling Noble, a motorized unit, also will add their colorful presence, Hoover said.

Marchers and floats are being assembled at Niedringhaus and Edison avenues between 8 and 10 a.m. Monday.

The parade will officially start at 10 a.m. with the marchers going east on Niedringhaus and then north on Madison Avenue to 29th Street, turning west to proceed along Wilson Park, 29th and State streets.

Special events are planned at Wilson Park's Diamond 8 area, following the parade.

Grand marshals of the parade are Charlie Mohr, president of the Alton-Wood River Labor Council, Al Davis, president of the Belleville-Eagleville Labor Council, and Hoover, Tricities Area Trades and Labor Council president. The three labor councils are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor/Congress of Industrial Organizations, together form the Greater Madison County Federation of Labor.

Various color guards from veterans organizations will be the elements among the marchers, he said.

Buses are being provided by the labor organizations to transport Granite City High School Band members from the high school to the Niedringhaus Avenue assembly point prior to the parade's starting time, Hoover said.

John Fornaszewski and other musicians, representing the Musicians Local 717, AFL-CIO, will participate in the parade and also play dance music during the social activities at Wilson Park.

"I'd guess there could be anywhere from 30 to 40 labor groups represented in the parade. All are welcome whether or not they have signed up," Hoover said.

Roads

a map to outline the desired improvements. Many of the major suggestions dealt with better east-west arteries.

"The problem is," Nighobosian said, "other than (Interstate) 270 at the top (of the map), we have no good traffic routes east and west."

He said the committee hopes to see Illinois 183 and Pontoon Road become "beltways" to enable traffic to get quickly through this area or to any point within it.

High on the wish list was the widening of Pontoon Road from Illinois 111 to Illinois 203, completing the widening of it from 203 to Illinois 3, and extending it from 111 (the point where it becomes Pontoon Road) to Illinois 157.

Also high on the list were rehabilitation of Broadway viaduct in Venice and construction of an additional lane on 203 (Nameki Road) from Pontoon Road to Madison Avenue in Granite City.

Kirk Brown, director of planning and programming for IDOT, need call from front and center to explain the transportation department's budgetary difficulties.

Dale Klohr, chief highway engineer for IDOT District 3, had some good news and some bad. The refurbishing of the Madison-Venice area viaduct on Broadway "should start next spring," Klohr said.

In addition, a lane and traffic signals to Nameki Road from Pontoon Road to Madison Avenue has been funded in the current five-year plan, Klohr said.

The Illinois 203 (McCambridge Avenue) viaduct over railroad yards will also be refurbished, Klohr said.

One major project on the committee's list would extend Illinois 3 south from Venice to connect with the interstate highway system. While Klohr admitted that the project had merit, he said a feasibility study alone would be "extremely expensive."

Other projects in Granite City were rejected outright as being solely the responsibility of the city.

Several projects on the wish list involved turning railroad crossings into overpasses or underpasses called "grade separations" in highway department parlance.

Klohr didn't hold out much hope for those projects. "I've been on the job we've built only three grade separations," he said.

He suggested either just improving the crossings or making applications to the Grade Separation Fund, offered by the Illinois Commerce Commission only to local governments.

Klohr promised to attend future meetings of the Traffic Committee, and Brown suggested future discussions between IDOT and city and county governments.

State Sen. Sam Vadalabene pledged to do his best to resolve any of these difficult situations.

Bush said, "It's obvious from what (Brown) said that the only way we're going to get there is with a state fuel tax increase."

Asked afterward if he would characterize the meeting as a little good news mixed with a lot of bad, Bush said, "I think we really expected some of the news that was bad."

"We knew our list was longer than was feasible in the next two decades. We wanted to know which ones they (IDOT) could help us with and which they couldn't."

FEET FIRST

By Dr. Claude Hiles

The most common victims of Achilles tendonitis (an inflammation of the Achilles tendon) are women. This is because some women begin wearing shoes with high heels when they are still growing teenagers. As the years go by, these young women develop shortened Achilles tendons because the tendon no longer has to stretch down to enable the foot to sit comfortably in a regular-heeled shoe. If the steps into running shoes for exercise, however, she will not have the tendon length required to allow her foot to sit properly in the low-heeled shoe. The tendon stretches and becomes inflamed, possibly leading to a chronic problem if help is not sought.

High-heeled shoes also tend to pinch a woman's foot forward. This, in turn, can lead to such conditions as corns, calluses, and hammer toes. Adding half insoles to such shoes may help prevent the foot from sliding forward. Be sure to see a podiatrist for periodic exams and early detection of any foot disorders. Contact my office at 1930 State St. for comprehensive foot care including in-house surgery and x-ray service. Office hours by appointment. B.O.B.S. John Hancock and Medicare accepted.

CAN WE ACHIEVE HAPPINESS?

Happiness for many seems an elusive goal. We look around and everyone we see appears to be happy, and yet that happiness seems beyond our grasp. But is it? Are there steps we can take to achieve happiness? I think there are. Here are a few that I would like to pass along to you.

Stop looking outside of yourself for validation of your worth, beauty, intellect or personality. Don't ask others if they are satisfied with your performance or looks. Ask yourself if you are satisfied. I think you will discover that the less approval you seek from others, the more you will receive.

Decide that you are going to appreciate life when naysayers and prophecies of doom are determined to drag you down. Accept the responsibility for making yourself happy, and just as importantly, reject the responsibility for making others happy. Happiness is each person's own responsibility.

Be yourself. Eliminate all roles that have been forced upon you throughout your life. Behave in a manner that you feel is appropriate for the moment, not in a way that you think others feel you should, based upon a "role" they have assigned to you. Remember, you are living your life, not acting in a movie scripted for you by others.

Stop blaming others for your unhappiness. Eliminate such thoughts as "She made me feel bad when she said what she did," and replace them with "I made myself feel bad when I heard what she said." Remember nobody can make you feel bad, they can try, but you make the final determination about your feelings.

Take charge of your life. You are an adult and as such responsible for your own life and happiness. Lead your own life, don't let others lead it for you. Remember, you only have one life, don't give it away to someone to live for you.

Expect to be happy. Your own expectations are the key to life. If you expect to be happy and fulfilled in life, then most likely it will work out that way.

Public must face facts on cigarette smoking

To the editor:

Isn't it time we face the facts about smoking?

For more than 20 years now, the American public has ignored warnings about the dangers of cigarette smoking. The warning labels on cigarette packages and advertisements are so familiar that we just gloss over them. Despite the dangerous and unsanitary effects of smoking, it is still depicted in popular films and advertisements as a glamorous aspect of a full and fun life.

Rose Cipollone bought that image when she was 16 years old, but she would tell another story today if she could. Rose Cipollone is the New Jersey wife and mother who smoked countless packs of cigarettes between 1942 and her death from lung cancer in 1984.

Rose's family sued the tobacco companies that produced her brands of choice, charging that the cigarette manufacturers were responsible for her cancer and death. The jury, in a landmark verdict, said that the company that sold Rose cigarettes before 1965 was partially liable. Because its advertisements claimed the cigarettes were safe, even medically advised. But, the jury essentially said, Rose should have known better after 1965, when the Surgeon General's warning began to appear on all cigarette packages.

What does that say about smokers in 1987? Shouldn't we know even better now? Our knowledge about smoking has increased greatly since 1965. We now know that smoking causes cancers, respiratory diseases and lung diseases. We know that about 1,000 people die from these ailments each and every day of the year. We know that pregnant women who smoke have a higher rate of miscarriages, premature births and low birth weight babies. We know that children raised in homes with smokers have higher incidences of respiratory problems. And, thanks to the Surgeon General's latest report, based on the research of 50 scientists, we now know that smoking is highly addictive, no different than our most infamous illicit drugs.

As a physician, I am sadly aware of these facts. I am also aware of the less obvious ways smoking erodes a person's quality of life, such as chronic coughs or hoarseness, yellow teeth, bad breath, frequent colds, poor circulation. As a plastic surgeon, I have had to turn away many smokers seeking face lifts, liposuction and some other procedures. I have seen how increased habit inhibits the proper healing. Skin flaps are much more likely to slough for a smoker than a nonsmoker.

We know so much more than Rose Cipollone knew back in 1942. Yet, about 54 million Americans still smoke. Not surprisingly, most of them say they want to quit.

About 40 million people have quit (proof that it is an addiction that can be beat). And more will quit. Recently newspapers and television have revealed evidence of mounting public sentiment against cigarette smoke (particularly someone else's). Airlines have banned smoking on most flights; the Surgeon General has expounded on the dangers of passive smoking as well as the addictive nature of tobacco; and many Illinois municipalities, including Chicago, have restricted smoking in public places. The masses didn't revolt in the face of these developments; they cheered.

The American people — Illinoisans included — are becoming more militant in defending their right to breathe clean, smoke-free air. They are speaking up more often and refusing to let someone else's addiction pollute their lungs, ruin their meal or dirty their office. They know that 500 to 5,000 people die each year from lung cancer caused by breathing someone else's smoke, and do not want to join those numbers.

Our federal lawmakers should respond to this public sentiment by ending government subsidies for tobacco farmers. Instead, we should invest in a healthier America by using the subsidy funds to help those farmers convert their fields to other crops.

Important changes should be made on the state level, also. But Illinois legislators have been slow to face up to the facts about smoking. This spring our lawmakers again refused to place statewide restrictions on smoking in public places.

The Illinois Clean Indoor Air Act, supported by the Illinois State Medical Society, would have required most public places and restaurants to establish no smoking areas. The act was defeated in committee by one vote, and Illinois remains one of only eight states that does not restrict smoking in public places.

It is time Illinois faced the facts about smoking. Our state should join the majority of the states and create a healthier environment for nonsmokers. We cannot expect everyone to quit — if some choose to continue, in light of all the facts, that is their right. But for their good and our own, let's not make it so convenient to light up. We'll be making it safer for everyone.

DR. HARRY SPRINGER
president, Illinois State Medical Society

Costello welcomes questions

To the editor:

My family and I sincerely thank all the people of the 21st Congressional District for electing me to serve them in the United States Congress.

It is truly an honor to be chosen as the successor to Congressman Mel Price and I will always be mindful of the awesome responsibility that has been entrusted in me.

I will attempt to serve the people of Southwestern Illinois in the great tradition of Congress and I will work very hard to always be worthy of all the support I have received.

Our congressional offices in Washington and those back home in our five-county region are offices that belong to all the people of this area.

My staff and I are committed to your service. We will answer your questions, take your suggestions to heart, and help you with the programs and problems sometimes posed by our government.

Again, I thank you for the opportunity to serve you as your congressman and I look forward to doing my very best on your behalf.

Ethanol would help bring cleaner air

To the editor:

Henry P. Slane of the Peoria Journal-Star makes this observation:

"Take a sealed room with 100 people in it; let 25 percent smoke cigarettes, cigars or pipes. At the end of an hour the air will be pretty foul. I admit, but put one good old gasoline guzzler in the same area, and local funeral homes will be mighty busy."

"Engineers have been able to modify carburetors to burn ethanol for years. Farmers can supply the basic ingredients, and we won't have to send a fleet of ships half way around the world to see our dollars leave this country. Have our men killed and cost the taxpayers billions."

"Some fuels are partially mixed with ethanol now. During World War II, more than 40 years ago during gasoline rationing, ethanol was used in higher percentage than. Why not now?"

"Keep the air cleaner, our dollars at home and still be able to ride the latest model car in style."

What Henry Slane suggests makes sense. Right now a little more than 7 percent of the gasoline sold for automobiles is 10 percent ethanol, largely a product of corn.

The drought, however, is having an adverse impact on our fledgling ethanol industry and we need to look at ways to minimize that negative effect. One drought-related proposal would make government grain stocks available to domestic ethanol producers at reduced prices.

The hot, dry weather has pushed the price of corn up dramatically. That in turn has driven up the cost of producing ethanol, which could, in the long run, discourage ethanol use.

In a very round-about way, ethanol may be able to help blunt future droughts. There is growing concern that recent swings in extreme weather patterns, like our hot, dry summer, may be influenced by increased global air pollution — the so-called Greenhouse Effect.

Scientists argue that excess carbon oxides being pumped into the atmosphere are at least partly caused by automobile emissions.

I have a bill in the Senate, and Illinois Congressman Dick Durbin and Ed Humes have a bill in the House, to gradually increase the use of gasoline sold with ethanol. In five years it would require that 50 percent of all gasoline sold would be 10 percent ethanol.

It would help our corn farmers, reduce subsidies for agriculture by several billion dollars, and make our air cleaner.

Then why don't we do it?

There are two problems.

The first is a perception problem. Many people believe ethanol is a magic engine cleaner. The reality is that all new car manuals indicate clearly there is no problem.

On some older cars there may be a temporarily, because the cleaner product will clean up carburetors and adjustments may need to be made.

But it is interesting that in the Indianapolis 500, every car in the race used ethanol. And they weren't doing it to clean the air!

The second problem is more serious. The big oil companies don't want us to shift over to ethanol, so they are fighting it, for obvious reasons.

In Colorado today, all gasoline sold has to be either 10 percent ethanol or methanol, a product that has some different problems. Colorado is not doing this because they want to help Illinois corn farmers. They are doing it because they want to clean up the air in Denver.

Yes, we can do better, much better.

I hope we have the good sense to start moving in that direction. Almost everyone will benefit.

U.S. SEN. PAUL SIMON

Kickoff time draws near

With its dismal combination of severe drought and unusually extreme heat, the summer seemed endless. But now its days are dwindling down to a precious few, and thoughts are on autumn's rapid approach.

You know it's the fall season when the National Football League begins capturing the attention of a big audience of fans on Sunday afternoons. That schedule is going to get rolling this weekend.

Attention also begins to focus at this time of the year on the NFL and its players, each weekend of televised games brings a new public appeal by one of the athletes for active involvement in United drives, agencies and projects.

In this community, the Tri-Cities Area United Way is preparing to launch its annual fund campaign with a kickoff breakfast Tuesday, Sept. 13. The symbolism is appropriate, because there will be much joy and cheering when one's favorite team scores a touchdown, and when one's home town achieves an important goal — like victory in a major, communitywide financial undertaking.

We're ready for that drive down the playing field to begin.

There's good, bad news

The good news from Springfield is that a new insurance law has been signed. The bad news is that a second new insurance proposal has become law.

Applause is widespread for the legislation requiring all motorists to have liability insurance. Illinois has become the 40th state to take such a step. It is needed because at least one-fourth of this state's drivers are uninsured, and many thousands of them become involved in traffic collisions.

The other new law is yet another delay of CHIP (the Comprehensive Health Insurance Plan). It stalls the start from Aug. 15 to Oct. 1 — and then only if non-vetoed state funds have been appropriated for it.

Fiscal prudence is a good idea but much time has passed since lawmakers decided to insure persons with costly illnesses who cannot get insurance elsewhere. The decision was commendable but remains meaningless unless resources are provided.

Compounding the problem is that officials are, properly, keeping their eyes on not only the first-year expense but projected increases. It boils down to whether Illinois really wants to help those lacking health insurance, or whether it doesn't.

Taking care of business

What do business people do when they aren't doing business?

Quite a few of them play golf, so we suppose there should be no surprise about a fund-raising activity just announced by the School of Business at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

What they're going to do is play golf. A Sept. 9 deadline has been set to register for the first benefit golf outing sponsored by the business school.

Proceeds from the Sept. 30 event at the Belk Park course in Wood River will be used for faculty enhancement, student scholarships and equipment for the School of Business.

It's all being handled by the SIUE Foundation, so participants can concentrate on divots instead of debits, greens instead of greenbacks. They won't have to pay attention that day to the bottom line, and the only "number" heard often on the links will be "Fore!"

Lame remarks by a traveling man

Guest comment by Alton Telegraph — Gov. James Thompson, easily the all-time travel champion among Illinois governors, last month gave the most incredible explanation of why he removed himself from the list of candidates for the Republican vice presidential nomination.

He said the travel requirements would be too tough. For super-traveler Thompson, that's like saying he bowed out because the pay would be too great, the VP post too powerful, and it might even put him on the road to the Presidency.

Globe-trotter Thompson said, keeping a straight face and in a serious tone, that visiting distant places as vice president would cause intolerable separation from his family. That was presented as the overriding factor in his decision to bow out, not the fact that the nomination was not offered to him.

It's worth noting that these comments, worthy of an Oscar, were made in Illinois, since the governor was not overseas on one of the 13 foreign trips, usually called "trade missions," he has made since taking office in 1977.

"Travel-shy" Thompson has taken seven trips, sometimes accompanied by his wife and daughter, to Asian countries and four to western Europe. In addition to a trip to the Soviet Union and a visit to Canada, the governor has been to England, Japan, Sweden, West Germany, Austria, France, Hong Kong, China, Korea and Belgium.

Between these jaunts (junks to some critics), trips to places from California to Washington, D.C., were interspersed.

Most months of the year, Thompson seems to travel out of Illinois at least once a week.

There's an old adage that advises people to judge politicians by what they do, not what they say. Apply it to Thompson and the conclusion is inescapable that a Grand Canyon-size gap exists between his words and his actions on the subject of travel.

Withdrawal of charges criticized

To the editor:

The voluntary withdrawal of all charges against Alderman Dan Partney and two police officers is an affront to me.

For the special prosecutor to suggest at the 11th hour that the case was too weak is an insult to my intelligence and reeks of the smell of politics.

In the almost year and a half since the case was taken to the State's Attorney's Office, no one from there or the Illinois Department of Criminal Investigation traveled to Virginia to interview the testing personnel, who could have confirmed the test scores initially reported to me in 1986. Only Partney's attorney, Leon Scroggins, spoke with the testing service.

Special Prosecutor Clyde Kuehn spoke to the people of the testing service on the Friday the case was scheduled to start, the very day he voluntarily withdrew the case. It was discovered the testing service would no longer verify the scores, despite its letter of Feb. 14, 1986, that "the highest scores reported on the 583 exams, 143 and 144, were achieved by two candidates who took the exam in Granite City."

An investigation to check such scores would have been a fundamental action. The case was bungled from start to finish. Neither State's Attorney Dick Allen nor Kuehn can escape public belief that the staff failed to pursue this case with vigor and professional diligence.

Throughout this long ordeal, it was said no indictments would be forthcoming unless the case could proceed. We were repeatedly assured they would not start unless they could find "To suggest, literally hours before the case was to begin, that it had somehow unraveled is pure hogwash."

Not a single witness died; not a single shred of evidence was destroyed. The staff was caught between a speedy-trial time limit of 90 days and a half-hearted investigation. There is no excuse why someone could not have fully and completely investigated.

If the information could not have been tied down and convictions sought, indictments should not have been issued. Voluntary surrender is mystifying. While their performance in this case bespeaks otherwise, the DCI and Allen's staff are not idiots. There is only one explanation plausible to me for the pitiful performance — pressure by powerful political figures.

Had the case been handled fairly, it would have been dropped during the initial phase or prosecuted to a conclusion. Unfortunately, preferential treatment and unequal justice can occur in an imperfect world. The case is now over, not by virtue of a jury's acquittal, nor by judicial opinion, but by withdrawal of the charges.

Despite constant rantings to the contrary, I did not begin this investigation of the promotional examination to derail Partney's mayoral ambitions. Voters have twice rejected his attempt to occupy City Hall but I doubt they will turn him down should he try a third time.

What brought about the initial investigation — and the request for prosecution, sent to the State's Attorney's Office — was simply an attempt to serve the public. When evidence was brought to my attention, I could not and would not turn my head and look the other way.

As one of the city's attorneys, I felt it my obligation to the people to look into the matter and, if necessary, proceed with a full-scale investigation. There is no doubt that had Mayor Cruse not made the investigation public when he did, we would have been able to complete it.

With Cruse's release of information in April of last year, the undercover investigation became public and its effectiveness was fatally compromised. We then had no choice but to proceed in the manner we did.

To those people who drove by my house late Friday night, not only disturbing my family but also my neighbors, and who honked horns in a "victory parade," you have my sympathies.

No one has won. The way this matter has been conducted, all citizens have lost and should share my sense of outrage. It is shameful whenever and wherever there is political manipulation of our system of laws.

JOHN J. HOPKINS

No politics in dropping charges

To the editor:

The recent statement by a former Granite City assistant city attorney — concerning the dismissal last week of criminal charges against Daniel J. Partney, David Rosenberg and James Reader — is so ridiculous that it borders on absurdity.

To imply there was a political deal between me (Partney's defense attorney) and the state's attorney or the special prosecutor would indicate John J. Hopkins is misinformed.

The state's attorney by his own choice has not spoken to me for several months. My office and Partney vigorously opposed Dick Allen in the primary election (Allen lost when seeking nomination to a second term as state's attorney).

I had never dealt with the special prosecutor prior to this case and I entered into no deal with him. I respect his decision, after he completed his trial preparation, that there was no evidence to support the charges.

A member of the Granite City Police Department who scored in the test behind Reader and Rosenberg is an employee of Hopkins as an investigator.

He initiated this investigation and, when he found he could not do it on his own, prevailed on Hopkins to use the office of assistant city attorney to investigate those charges. It is significant to me that Hopkins is no longer an assistant city attorney.

Those two pushed the investigation throughout the long months this matter lingered in the public eye. It is understandable that Hopkins may now be chagrined by the due process and the administration of justice in this matter. It was hoped that he would accept the facts and not sound like the rantings of a disillusioned litigant.

I anticipate that the public will hear more of this matter later.

Fair chance to compete

By Bill Winter

Now that the long-debated trade proposal has become law, it will be helpful to Metro East, the Midwest and the nation.

One of the chief backers, U.S. Sen. John "Jack" Danforth, believes it will be a plus, resulting in fair play and an increase in the number of attractive jobs.

The thick document is known as the Omnibus Trade and Competitiveness Act.

It will be recalled that President Ronald Reagan throughout his nearly eight years in Washington has opposed almost any retaliation against foreign nations that, fairly or unfairly, drive U.S. producers out of business.

Warning that a trade limitation war would hurt America, he signed this year's legislation with reluctance. But it has solid backing by both parties, and has become the law of the land.

Sen. Danforth says many companies will find that the trade law contains "powerful new tools for expanding computer and telecommunications products."

"Soybean producers, corn growers, cattlemen and other farmers will benefit from new leverage" in fighting unfair foreign trade restrictions.

Industries such as footwear will have a stronger chance to get temporary relief from imports, in order to regain the ability to compete.

Workers who lost their jobs because of imports, plant closings and modernizations will see a new and stronger federal commitment to retraining.

He says the message is that America no longer will be "the world's doormat" and instead will insist on fair treatment and reciprocity, not the destruction of our basic industries.

Our trade policy, Danforth says, no longer will be weak, unpredictable and ineffective.

The goal: If nations have free access to markets here, they must open their markets to our goods and services. One of the results could be a big drop in our existing annual trade deficit.

It all boils down to the desire to compete on a level playing field, to put it in football or soccer terms. There is no guarantee of a return to our past trade dominance, but at least we may get a real chance to become fully competitive.

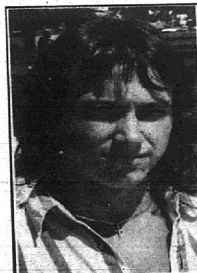

It's the kind of effort being waged every day at Granite City Steel, half-owned by a steel company in Japan, the most successful country in the realm of exports and imports.

The keys to competitiveness continue to be high-quality products made at reasonable cost and delivered on time.

Will remodeling your home pay? — It all depends

By Catherine R. Mauck
University of Illinois
extension adviser

Sarah needs a room of her own. The teens have reached an age when they want someplace to entertain friends — away from the rest of the family. The heirloom oak table will not squeeze into the kitchen. Whatever the situation, homeowners often face the question of whether to move, or to remodel the existing home.

The decision depends on the family's needs, wants and financial situation. If the remodeling provides a solution to a problem for your family, it may be that the benefits to your family outweigh the cost of the remodeling.

On the other hand, perhaps it is less costly, or simpler, to put the house on the market and find a new one to suit you.

When determining whether the improvement will add to the value of the home, consider where the improvements will be made.

A basement, converted to a recreation room or family room, could provide the owner with a recovery of 70 percent to 80 percent of its initial cost when the house is resold.

It is possible to price your house right out of your neighborhood market. If a homeowner spends, for example, $20,000 on a kitchen in a $50,000 house and neighborhood, the house will not automatically increase in value to $70,000.

However, second bathrooms, third bedrooms and family rooms are almost always good investments.

Converting existing space is less costly than adding new space. But, if a garage is remodeled into a bedroom you may lose — buyers in colder climates may prefer a garage.

Outside improvements will not usually provide more than 25 percent resale return and should be considered only for the enjoyment they provide the homeowner and family.

American dream needs help

By Rod Flood
President,
Granite City
Board of Realtors

Now that the presidential party conventions have been held, it is time to begin looking at some facts on housing in order for our country to formulate a coherent policy on what is to be a critical issue during this campaign.

The Granite City Board of Realtors has provided some enlightening information about the state of our nation's housing. Over the past decade, some disturbing trends in our nation's housing have developed. For example, the after-tax cash cost of homeownership, which peaked in the early 1980s, is still very high. Moreover, the homeownership rate has declined steadily since 1980, especially among households in the 25-34 age range.

Also, rents are at their highest level in two decades and the supply of low-cost rental housing is shrinking due to abandonment or upgrading for higher-income occupants. This increased rental payment burden, especially among single-parent families, has contributed to the rise in homelessness.

These trends have been affecting the ability of low- and moderate-income families to find acceptable rental housing and the ability of moderate- to middle-income families to make the transition from rental housing to homeownership.

The ability of moderate-income families to become homeowners over the past four decades has been called "The American Dream."

Yet, researchers and policymakers across the country are asking whether our society will continue to help families achieve this dream and, over the past year, have been providing input (See DREAM, Page 4B)

About real estate

By Don Campbell

Timing key to planning when deferring gains

Dear Mr. Campbell:

In September 1987 I bought a handyman's delight condominium through foreclosure for $47,500 ($5,000 down plus $2,000 in costs). After considerable repairs, I am ready to sell it for about $70,000. I would like to use all of the profit plus my equity as a down payment on another fixer in the same building costing about $60,000.

Will I have to pay capital gains tax on only $10,000 ($70,000 minus $50,000) or am I missing something important? Do the broker's commission and closing costs decrease my taxable profit? If it makes a difference, the condo is my principal home and I am 22 years old.

E.W.

Answer: Busy hands are happy hands, right? That's very industrious of you, and I congratulate you on what you have done.

Yes, your understanding of your tax situation is pretty well on target. Because it is your principal residence the deferral of capital gains is still in place, and the ceiling, in your case, is $10,000 because you are selling one for $70,000 and replacing it with one $10,000 less. And, yes, you can shelter your actual tax even further since your expenses for capital improvements, and your selling costs, will be added back to your base, reducing that $10,000 gain.

Admittedly, this can get into a slightly gray area since the expenses for "capital improvements" can be added back, but those for normal maintenance can't. In your case, where do you draw the line? My Internal Revenue Service contact feels since you have been in the condo such a short time, and since most, if not all, of your efforts have been directed toward improving its value, you shouldn't have any trouble. And, of course, all fix-up expenses incurred within 90 days of selling the condo can be written off, anyway.

There's just one area, my IRS man says, where you are going to have to watch your step: timing. The fact that the deferred gain is being held to $10,000 is due to two things: it is your personal residence and you are replacing it within two years. But that "two year" business possibly can come back to haunt you because, he says, "If more than one house is bought, or built, within that two-year period, then the deferral only applies to the last one."

You apparently are all right on this transaction (selling Condo A to buy Condo B), because there is nothing to suggest that you bought an earlier home before picking up this foreclosure. But let's say that you buy, renovate and sell this next one (Condo B) and then buy another (Condo C), renovate and sell it, too, all within two years of having sold Condo A. Then the deferral will apply only to Condo C and the IRS will go back and recompute the gain on Condo B. It will be computed as any gain on any investment. What you paid for it subtracted from what you sell it for (less, of course, your expenses during your holding period). It would make quite a difference.

Consumer tips

Legal requirement not only reason to have smoke detector

Q. I recently heard that a law was passed requiring that smoke detectors be installed in a person's residence. Why should I have a smoke detector?

A. The state Legislature recently passed legislation requiring smoke detectors in homes as of July 1, 1988.

Home fires are a serious threat to your family's safety. Every year in the United States, approximately 5,000 people are killed and over 40,000 are injured by residential fires.

Most fire victims die from inhalation of smoke and toxic gases, not as a result of burns. Most deaths and injuries occur in fires that happen at night while the victims are asleep. Sleepers must be warned before it is too late.

Properly installed and maintained, the home smoke detector is considered one of the best and least expensive means of providing an early warning when a fire begins, before the concentration of smoke reaches a dangerous level, or before the fire becomes too intense.

There is no doubt about it — smoke detectors save lives, prevent injuries, and minimize property damage by alerting residents to detect fires early in their development. The risk of dying from fires in homes where detectors are not installed is twice as high as in homes that have functioning detectors.

Providence offers employee problem assistance

'A person cannot work up to his or her ability when suffering from depression, alcohol abuse, or other personal problems'

Wes Tobin
Director

You've seen them in the workplace, the sales clerk who is too busy yelling at her teen-age son over the phone to wait on you; or your co-worker who forgot about a meeting this morning because he was trying to balance his checkbook.

Perhaps even more serious are the ones you don't see, the worker who couldn't make it in because of a hangover or the after-effects of drugs.

You think they need help, but your boss or supervisor shrugs it off. It is a personal problem that shouldn't be at work.

Yet, their problems are affecting your job performance as you cover for them or try to cope with their anger. They are costing the company time and money.

Doesn't anyone else see this? The Providence Employee Assistance Program, a service of St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Granite City, recognizes the problem and is trying to solve it.

"A person cannot work up to his or her ability when suffering from depression, alcohol abuse, or other personal problems," said Wes Tobin, director of the Providence Employee Assistance Program. "All problems must be corrected before an employee can perform up to his or her potential."

In recognition of this, SEMC set up the Providence Employee Assistance Program in 1981. The "EAP" is designed to help employees and their families with a broad range of human concerns, including chemical dependency, disruptions in family life, emotional difficulties, financial pressures and legal problems.

"Troubled employees can cause a lot of problems for the employer. They are often preoccupied. They may come to work, but their minds are elsewhere," Tobin said.

This inattention to work detail can be annoying in some work situations and fatal in others. A heavy equipment operator who is not paying attention to his work could harm many of his co-workers and himself in an on-the-job accident.

Studies of the Providence EAP, 798-3437, show that for each dollar invested in EAP, an employer can expect to see a return of $8 to $10.

Area companies, such as Carlyle Synthes Systems, in Greenville, and Nestle and Magna Bank, both located in Granite City, and their employees say they have benefited from the Providence Employee Assistance Program.

The EAP is an employee benefit paid for by the employer. To use the service, eligible employees may contact the employee assistance counselor on their own or be referred by a supervisor or family member.

If the employees are sensitive about the problem, they do not have to worry about anyone finding out what their particular problem is.

"Confidentiality is highly respected here," Tobin said.

The employee assistance counselor will try to provide the employees with an objective look at their situation and point them in the right direction so they can work the problem out," Tobin said.

The program is not a replacement for any disciplinary action for poor work performance.

It is "a confidential counseling program designed to help employees and their families solve personal problems that are affecting their work performance."

Home ownership future uncertain

into the legislative process to help develop a new national housing policy.

When we talk about the homeownership rate we are referring to the percentage of housing units that are owner-occupied. Since the mid-1960s, the homeownership rate steadily rose from 63 percent to a high of 65.6 percent in 1980.

However, since then it dropped to 64 percent. Although this decline seems small in percentage terms (2.6), with almost 90 million families occupying individual housing units, it suggests a loss of roughly 1.44 million owners.

Certainly, if the rate of homeownership had continued to increase through 1987, we could expect upwards of 2 million more homeowners than we have now.

The decline in the homeownership rate is a nationwide phenomenon affecting areas with strong and weak economies alike. However, there is a regional side to the problem as well.

For example, the homeownership rate has fallen off most sharply in the Midwest, though marked declines occurred in the South and the West as well. The growth in the number of elderly homeowners in the Northeast helped offset the effect of declining homeownership rates among young households.

In the Northeast, many older households have owned their homes for years and have therefore been insulated from the housing cost inflation of the late 1970s and early 1980s.

But the most critical aspect of the problem is the concentration of the decline among younger households.

For households aged 25 to 29, the homeownership rate fell from 43.3 percent in 1980 to 35.9 percent in 1987.

New county employees can't reside elsewhere

By John Mialzo

EDWARDSVILLE — Prospective employees for Madison County will now have to take up residence here as a condition of their employment under a resolution approved by the Madison County Board on Wednesday.

Under the new rule, new county employees residing outside the county will have up to six months to relocate to the county, according to Fred Dalton, D-Col, chairman of the county's Personnel Committee.

Dalton offered the resolution recognizing that the county will apply to employees in all county departments.

In an interview, Dalton said the committee produced the recommendation based on a request from Sheriff Bob Church to the board.

The sheriff said he felt like he specifically needed a resolution covering this since he has an employee that has been living outside the county," Dalton said after the vote.

Church could not be reached for comment but Chief Deputy Bud Gallowsay said the sheriff had asked for the resolution to enhance his authority.

"We just felt, first of all, that people who work for the county should live here."

"We also have a situation with an employee who we don't even know where she lives," Gallowsay said.

Recycle an old golf bag into a garden-tool caddy. Hot, rain, or whatever you need stands in the bag, while small tools will fit into side pockets. Works best if you attach to a wheel-it-along car. (Wanna even better if you can convince yourself that gardening is as much fun as golf?)

Spray sliding-door tracks periodically with silicone spray; the doors will glide more easily.

Why use resealer on an asphalt driveway? Used every two or three years, the sealer not only looks good, it helps fill in little cracks and keeps moisture out.

The right way to paint the ceiling: work back and forth across the short dimension, overlapping strokes so that you're always working "into the wall." Don't stop in the middle, or lap marks will show.

Americana — the country look — is popular today. One do-it-yourself project: stencil a design of stars or flowers on stair risers.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

What happens if you have a will prepared and later wish to make changes? You have two choices in this situation. If the changes are minor in nature, you can sign a codicil to the original will. If there are major revisions, perhaps an entire new will should be prepared.

It should be noted that if the person making the will later decides to make changes, the will must be signed with the same formalities as the original will itself. This means that the codicil must be properly signed by the person before two witnesses. An informal note attached to the original document which is not properly witnessed will be of no effect in bringing about changes.

In one Illinois case, a widow had a will prepared which provided that upon her death, her property would be divided equally among her three children. She later had a "falling out" with her oldest child and wished to eliminate him from the will. Instead of consulting an attorney and having a new document properly signed and witnessed, she merely left a note attached to her original will. This note indicated that all her property was to be divided between her two youngest children and that her oldest child was to receive nothing.

This addition to the will was not a valid codicil because it was not properly witnessed and attested. Illinois law has required additions or deletions to a will to be properly witnessed in the same manner as the original will to ensure that it was in fact the intention of the person who had it prepared. The requirement of two witnesses as a safeguard to assure that the testator himself wished to have the changes made.

In another case, a woman indicated that when she died she wished to leave the will a list of personal property which each child was to receive. This once again was not properly signed and witnessed and thus was of no consequence at the time of death. The Court found that the executor was not bound to distribute the personal property based on the apparent wishes of the deceased.

Corn, soybean crops hard hit; alternative employment offered

SPRINGFIELD — With new crop reports estimating the lowest corn crop in 28 years and the worst soybean crop since 1974, some Illinois farmers are facing economic disaster.

Many of these farmers can find help, however, through a state program which helps farmers find alternative employment to supplement or replace farm income.

The Dislocated Farm Family Assistance Program (DFFAP), also known as the Farm Grant, is administered by the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA).

Through the program, farmers and farm families receive help translating their farming skills into other employment through job search assistance, resume development and job training.

"Illinois is one of the few states that offers a training program through an established center network which enables farmers and their families to supplement their income," said Jay R. Hedges, DCCA director.

"We want to make certain farm families know they can get help to see them through this drought."

Farmers often have marketable skills they don't even recognize. Farmers are heavy equipment operators, mechanics, troubleshooters, horticulturists and groundkeepers. They and their families can find work in these areas. The program helps them identify their skills and hone them to find alternative employment and income that may help save their farms.

Over the past two and a half years, the Farm Grant program has served nearly 900 individuals.

Of those, 420 have obtained full-time jobs at an average wage of $7.20 per hour and another 375 are still in the program, taking classroom training in a new vocation or working in an on-the-job position to acquire a new occupation.

"The Farm Grant program began with the goal of helping farmers and their families cope with the agricultural crisis and the loss of their farms," Hedges explained.

"Actually, we anticipated a downturn in enrollment as many of the farmers most affected by the crisis were already in or through the program."

But with the continuing drought and subsequent crop failures, many farm families are recognizing that they will need other sources of income to keep their farms. They're turning to the Farm Grant program to help them find other jobs and generate that income.

Hedges said the drought is already affecting program enrollment. For example, during July, traditionally a slow period, 20 new applicants enrolled in the Quincy program and another six participants signed up in Kankakee.

There are 12 Farm Grant programs operating within the established Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) network in Illinois. Fund for the programs are provided through the U.S. Department of Labor and an allocation from the State's General Revenue Fund targeted specifically for disclosed farmers and manufacturing workers.

DCCA has allocated $1.2 million to fund the Farm Grant program during fiscal 1989.

Under the Illinois Dislocated Farm Family Assistance Program, those answering "yes" to any of the following questions may be eligible for one or more of the services offered.

1. Have you been terminated, laid off or received a notice of termination or layoff after being previously employed for at least three years within the last five years in an occupation or a series of occupations with the same employer and your outlook for reemployment in the job is limited?

2. Have you been terminated or received a notice of termination of employment as a result of a permanent closure of a plant or facility within the last five years?

3. Have you been unemployed for a significant amount of time after being previously employed at least three years within the last five years in an occupation or series of occupations with the same employer?

4. Were you self-employed and are now unemployed or in the process of becoming unemployed? (This includes farmers, ranchers, professionals, independent tradespeople and other businesspeople formally self-employed.)

What a positive statement from God's Word! You shall receive power. And it shall come from the Holy Ghost. Take some sound advice please. Do not be afraid of the Holy Ghost. God gave His Spirit so we could have power and so that we can be witnesses for Him.

Since the Holy Ghost is God's way of empowering us for service, shouldn't we receive it without fear? God wants to help you, not harm you. Jesus came that we might have life and have it more abundantly. And He said, "I am going away, but I will send you another Comforter, even the Holy Ghost, and He will abide with you forever!"

What God has promised has been given. Why not ask Him for the Spirit? Baptism He wants you to have? He will give it to you. Today.

Auto liability insurance law signed, will take effect in 1990

Legislation signed Aug. 25 establishes an "effective, workable and cost-efficient plan" requiring all Illinois motorists to carry liability insurance coverage, Gov. James R. Thompson believes.

"Although most Illinois drivers recognize their responsibility to carry sufficient insurance, at least one-fourth of the motorists on the road are uninsured, creating enormous frustration for those who pay insurance premiums but must still pay their own damages when hit by an uninsured driver," Thompson said.

"And it can happen to anyone."

More than 60,000 uninsured drivers are involved in accidents each year.

"Finally, Illinois will join the 39 other states with mandatory insurance laws, and we'll do so with a program that is a model for the nation."

Under House Bill 3900, every motor vehicle subject to registration in Illinois will be required to carry liability coverage of at least $20,000 for the injury or death of one person in an accident; $40,000 for injury or death of more than one person; and $15,000 for property damage. The law will be enforced through random verification of registered vehicles, and drivers must carry proof of insurance for display to police officers upon request.

"This is a special moment for 5 million responsible motorists in Illinois who are insured," said Secretary of State Jim Edgar, who spearheaded the lobbying campaign for the legislation.

"The signing of this bill signifies that we are—at long last—responding to their demand for fairness. It also tells 2 million uninsured motorists in this state that their days of ducking responsibility are numbered."

The provisions of the legislation follow:

- The program will be administered by the Secretary of State's office and paid for by violators. Vehicle registration reinstatement fees will generate approximately $2.4 million annually, more than compensating for the estimated cost of administering the program.
- Every person applying for registration of a motor vehicle will be required to sign an affidavit that the vehicle being registered is insured and will remain insured for the duration of the registration.
- Questionnaires asking for the name of the vehicle owner's insurance company and policy number will be sent to random samples of registered vehicle owners. The information supplied will be forwarded to the appropriate insurance company for verification.
- Those who fail to respond to the questionnaire or who cannot be verified as being insured will face a two-month suspension of vehicle registration for the first offense and four months for repeated offenses. The suspension will not be lifted until the owner pays a $50 reinstatement fee ($100 for repeat offenders) and submits proof of insurance.

"All drivers involved in accidents, regardless of fault, will be verified for insurance. Currently, uninsured owners involved in accidents are not penalized if they are not at fault or are able to pay for any damage that they cause."

The Secretary of State may create specific categories of vehicle owners, such as those previously suspended for non-insurance, for random verification.

•Every insurance company will issue an insurance card to each person insured under the policy or bond. No card may be valid for more than six months.

•Any person convicted of knowingly altering, making, selling or otherwise making available an invalid or counterfeit insurance card is guilty of a Class A felony, with a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

- Operation of an uninsured vehicle or failure to display valid evidence of insurance will carry a minimum fine of $500.
- Operation of a vehicle while its registration is suspended for non-insurance will carry a minimum fine of $1,000.
- Refusal to display an insurance card will carry a minimum fine of $500.
- Displaying invalid evidence of insurance with the knowledge that the vehicle is not insured or displaying altered or counterfeit evidence will be a Class A misdemeanor, with a maximum penalty of up to one year in jail and a $1,000 fine.
- The Secretary of State will suspend the registration of the vehicle in which any of the above violations occurred, regardless of whether the arrested driver was the owner of the vehicle.
- There will be a prohibition against roadblocks used solely for the purpose of verifying insurance, and law enforcement officers will be prohibited from stopping vehicles for the sole purpose of verifying insurance.

We heard it through the grapevine that dancing raisins travel in style

"He's been our spokes-tiger for many years," said a telephone call I received last month from a public relations man, who said it with a straight face. It led to our front-page photograph in the Sunday, Aug. 7, Press-Record/Journal.

Chief Photographer Patrick Foley captured a month-old Adam Davis looking in awe at, you guessed it, Tony the Tiger, spokes-tiger for Kellogg Frosted Flakes. Their brief encounter took place at the Schnucks Market in Granite City.

How far will public relations people go to promote a client's product?

I don't know, but one of their approaches is to prepare glossy, colorful folders full of pictures and information, bombarding all who receive them with far more details than could possibly be of interest.

Maybe the theory is that, with so much overkill, at least some of the flood of publicity is going to find its way to the reading or viewing public.

EXHIBIT B (Tony was Exhibit A) is a thick packet that just arrived from the California raisins, who — we are told — are on vacation across America.

Their itinerary is going to include a visit at noon tomorrow, Sept. 2, to the Gateway Arch on the St. Louis riverfront.

This is the 18th stop of a 45-day, 27-city tour for "America's phenomenally popular Clayma-tion television stars," one of whom is named Justin X. Grape.

Regional Roundup

Deputy St. Louis Mayor Jack Keane will extend an official welcome to four bigger-than-life-size — well, what else can you call them except — dancing raisins.

WRINKLED BUT RHYTHMIC, the raisins will present their "famous conga-line dance routine" to "I Heard It Through the Grapevine."

Also during their stay, the four talented visitors plan to "admire the beauty" of the city and the surrounding bi-state area.

And they hope to "meet face-to-face with some of their thousands of adoring fans," while announcing the formation of their new national fan club.

TOP-RANKED among all the television commercials of 1987, the California raisins also are celebrating another triumph. They were just voted the nation's favorite animated characters, we are informed, although they don't say who cast the ballots.

On their scenic 6,500-mile drive across the heartland of our country, the fabulous foursome will not only meet mayors but also see historic landmarks and drop in on children and elderly persons in hospitals. The photo opportunities seem endless.

Starting in New York City and Boston, the raisins came here from Indianapolis and will head next to Kansas City, with a goal of "California or bust."

PRECISELY How do raisins travel from one place to the next? It's a good question, and there is a good answer: A chauffeured, 37-foot, luxury Itasca recreational vehicle.

The raisins obviously have earned their journey. Since 1986, they have produced and performed in such epics as "Lunch

Box," "Late Show" and "Playing With Your Food."

In October, raisins will combine with Ray Charles in an entirely new production playing on your home TV screen.

IT ISN'T TRUE that the first public relations agent told Moses, "If you can part the Red Sea, I can get you four pages 10, the Old Testament."

But PR people are imaginative and innovative enough to get a quartet of raisins nearly a quarter-page in this Regional Roundup column.

We promise to resist the temptation to do a future article on those courageous potatoes who urge us to save their skins by instead dining on rice.

State news

$300,000 in awards going to victims

The Illinois Department of Human Rights Systemic Unit negotiated nearly $300,000 in monetary awards to people who were victims of illegal discrimination.

The amount represents more than a 250 percent increase during the 12 months that ended June 30 and represents a fivefold increase when compared with the $61,000 during 1986. The awards included case settlements and job reinstatements, especially affecting women, minorities, people with disabilities or those in protected age groups.

Those who wish to contact the department with a complaint may call (312) 917-6200 in Chicago or (217) 785-5100 in Springfield.

Legislation tightens for medical labs

In an effort to reduce "false negative" readings on tests for cervical cancer, Gov. Jim Thompson signed legislation that will tighten regulations governing medical laboratories.

The bill allows the Department of Public Health to adopt stricter regulations covering examination, maintenance and storage of slides handled by medical laboratories analyzing Pap smears. Medical experts have recommended limiting the workload of technicians to reading about 30 slides a day. Some technicians had apparently been required to read as many as 300 a day.

Disabled get help to achieve job goals

The Illinois Department of Rehabilitation Services helped 7,465 people with disabilities achieve their vocational goals during the last year, exceeding the department's target by 5.5 percent.

The department signed up 47,254 new clients for its vocational rehabilitation programs between July 1, 1987, and June 30, 1988. One reason the goal was exceeded was that the department limited the number of cases counselors worked on, according to a spokesman.

Those placed in private sector jobs are making an average of $8,319 a year, compared to an average annual income of $1,167 before they found regular employment. About 66 percent of people with disabilities are unemployed, the highest unemployment rate of any group. Those who wish more information may call 1-800-233-DIAL.

Two Illinois fairs to conduct wagering

New legislation will allow the Illinois State Fair and the DuQuoin State Fair to conduct pari-mutuel wagering pilot projects next year.

The bill also allows the use of off-track betting parlors for races at both fairs. A portion of the money generated will be directed to downstate museums.

Gov. Jim Thompson also signed a bill to allow 1 percent of the winning prize money from horse races to be channeled to the Illinois Thoroughbred Breeders and Owners Foundation. One of the sponsors of that bill was State Sen. Sam Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville.

Pere Marquette Lodge operators now hiring

Midwest Property Management, the operator of Pere Marquette Lodge at Pere Marquette State Park, is hiring personnel for various positions at the lodge. The newly renovated lodge will open in September.

Conservation Director Mark Frech said employees will be hired from the local labor pool and former employees will be given every consideration. Anyone interested in applying may call 786-3469.

Protection of children strengthened by bills

Gov. Jim Thompson has signed a series of bills to protect children who are the victims of abuse, neglect and crime. The bills enable children to secure a range of services and receive remuneration under the Crime Victims Compensation Act.

"Unfortunately, child abuse and neglect and crimes against children continue to be a problem in Illinois and the nation. This legislation solidifies some of the laws and signals that our state is continuing the fight to protect our children," Thompson said.

The bills also make running a juvenile prostitution operation a Class 1 felony; make luring of a child under the age of 16 into a building without the consent of the parent count as child abduction; and improve laws relating to the treatment of children as witnesses, allowing out-of-court statements from children under age 13 in child abuse.

lands inventory

The national inventory, administered by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, was initiated in 1975. Through it, virtually all wetlands, lakes and streams have been identified, classified and mapped in about one-half of the United States. Illinois is the largest state to computerize its inventory.

It is estimated that 90 percent of the state's original 8.2 million acres of wetlands have been lost to agricultural, industrial, and residential and commercial development, with only 712,000 acres remaining.

According to the survey, 40 of the state's endangered species depend on wetlands for some part of their lifecycle.

Community Band to begin fall rehearsals

GRANITE CITY—The Granite City Community Band will start its fall rehearsal season at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 7, in the high school band room.

Band Director Joe Owens and Assistant Director Billie Nunn invite all former band members to join the group. There are many openings in the different sections, they said.

"Trumpets, trombones and percussion are especially needed," the directors said. Band members may rent a limited number of school instruments for a nominal fee.

The band practices every Wednesday from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. and schedules winter and spring concerts.

Any person 18 or older who has experience performing with a band is welcome to join the Community Band. Further information is available from Art LaVelle, band president, at 791-1124.

SIUE sets art series slate

The Tokyo String Quartet will inaugurate the 1988-89 Arts & Issues season at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. The concert will be at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 20 in the communications building theater.

Other programs in the series will be "From the Mississippi Delta," a story of a young black girl presented by the Negro Ensemble Company on Feb. 7.

The Theater Ballet of Canada will perform modern and classical ballet March 7. A theater mask ensemble, Imago, (April 4) and the Baltimore Consort (May 3) round out the series. All performances will be at 7:30 p.m.

Lectures in the series will feature Maki Mandela, oldest daughter of Nelson Mandela, on Nov. 16 and philosopher Susan Sontag on April 19. The lectures begin at 7:30 p.m.

Subscriptions are now available for $35. Individual tickets, which go on sale today (Sept. 1), are $1 for students, $6 for everyone else.

Those who wish more information may call 692-2222 or write University Ticket Office, campus box 1067, SIUE, Edwardsville, Ill. 62026-1067.

Ringling Bros. Circus to feature animal trainer

Gunther Gebel-Williams, a man who has spent most of his life taming lions, will be showcased in the 117th edition of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus at the St. Louis Arena on Sept. 13 through 18.

"Gunther is one of kind," said president and producer, Kenneth Feld. "His reputation and skill as an animal trainer are unequalled and may never again be matched," Feld said.

According to Gebel-Williams, "Each animal has a distinct personality. Therefore, I must be flexible in my training and presentation. For some I must be tough, for others gentle and encouraging. The animals know my voice, my language and my gestures."

When Gunther was 12, his mother was hired by the famed Circus Williams as a seamstress. With the guidance of Williams, Gunther soon became master of all circus animals. Later, he was named boss of the Circus Williams.

In 1969, Gunther made his American debut with Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus. A father of two, Tina and Mark Oliver, along with his wife, Sigrid, the Gebel-Williams family are involved in each performance. His wife presents the Liberty horses and Mark Oliver assists his dad with the performing pachyderms.

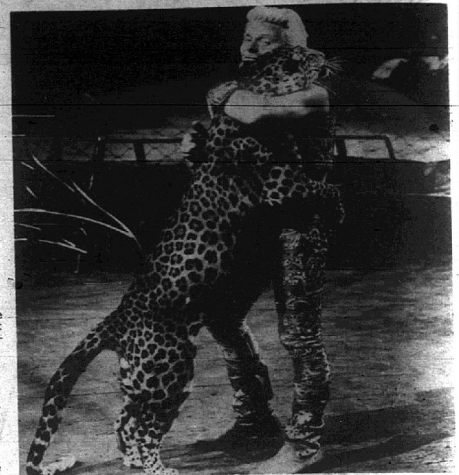

The circus will also feature breakdancers and freestyle bikers.

Tickets are priced at $10.50,

$8.50 and $7.50 and are available at the St. Louis Arena Box Office and all Tickets Now locations including Famous-Barr, Music Vision, Record Company, Marriott Pavilion, Westport Playhouse Box Office, Regal Sports, Mississippi Nights, and Kiel Box Office, or charge by phone by calling Dialtix at (314) 434-6600.

Group rates for 25 or more offers a $2.50 discount on selected performances. Those who wish more information may call the Group Sales Department at (314) 467-9222.

Hope against hope

Granite City teams open season under threat of teachers strike

Kickers ready to defend championship

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — All the memories of last fall's troubles of Herb "Sudden Death" Henton — don't mean a thing now. It's time to put up or shut up.

The Warrior soccer team opens defense of its state title this afternoon in Bellevue. Granite City takes on the Althoff Crusaders at the BAC soccer field. Junior varsity action begins at 4 p.m., with the varsity game to follow.

The Warriors open up with the possibility of a teachers strike hanging over their heads. They know they will play Althoff today and hope they can be the home opener on Saturday. Next week is still in doubt. The teachers could take a strike vote tonight, in which case school and any extra-curricular activities would be shut down on Tuesday.

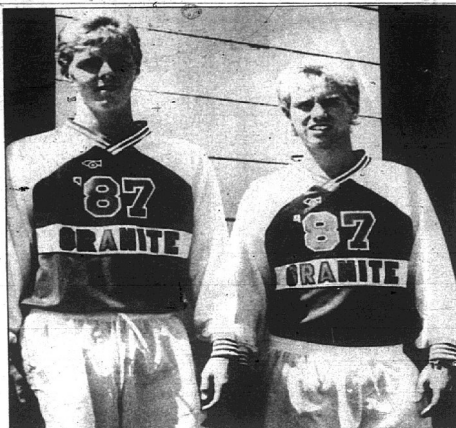

"I hope they can work it out," said senior co-captain Chris Ryan. "Especially since this is my senior year, I don't want a strike to mess up our season."

Ryan and Scott Stone are the senior captains, while Troy Adamitis and John VanBuskirk are the junior captains. Stone led the team with nine goals as a junior despite missing the first few games because of an eligibility problem.

"I should score more than nine goals this year," he said. "We've really had some good practices so far. Everyone's working hard."

Scott Swanson will start in goal today. Ryan, a point guard, Ryan and Stone both feel the goalkeeping is in good hands. "Everybody thought goalkeeping would be a problem, but it's been no problem at all," said Ryan. "Swanson really looks good. We've only played one game back from last year's defense, so I hope we can help him."

"Our defense is questionable still," said Gene Baker, beginning his 16th season at Granite City with a 315-49-35 school record and an overall mark of 373-69-36 in 20 years of prep coaching. "The midfield has to move the ball with a little more sanity than they have been. I don't think we're sharp at all yet."

wingback, Jim Hawkins and Brian Bjorkman at midfield, and Stone and Bob Strubberg up front, with Swanson in goal.

"Strubberg can be a pretty good scorer," said Stone. "He gets a lot of chances. It's just a matter of finishing them off. I hope he can come through in the big games for us."

"Everybody came in in great shape," said Ryan. "Just about everybody played during the summer and it helped. We're ready to go."

Hopefully, the teachers and school board are ready to go to the negotiating table.

GRANITE CITY — After almost three weeks of practice, Ron Yates can think of only one thing to do on Friday night.

"It's time to play a football game," he said. "We've practiced hard for a couple of weeks. It's time to play."

And that's exactly what the Warriors will do. They open Yates' fifth season at the helm with a 7:30 p.m. game against the Cahokia Comanches at Memorial Stadium.

Based on last year's records, the game between the Warriors (2-7 in 1987) and the Comanches (3-6) is hardly of marquee value.

But it's of utmost importance to both schools. They're both trying to improve and they're both trying to get a victory under their belts before possible teachers strikes.

"I haven't heard anything real encouraging yet," said Yates, who saw his rookie coaching season of 1984 ruined by a strike. "But I hear they were going to start negotiating (Tuesday) and go through Thursday. That's three solid days, so maybe they can work something out. If not, a strike could start Tuesday and put next Friday's home game against Quincy in danger."

But Cahokia comes first. They improved from 1-8 in Rob Eden's first season to 3-6 last year. Eden has an outstanding career record, so things could be on the upswing in Comanche-land.

"Cahokia is an awful good first game for us," said Yates. "They've been a good first game for the last few years. They'll hit you and give you a close game. We'll have to be ready."

"They're going to try to power us with their runners," said Eden. "We're going to have to stop that and force them to pass."

Eden feels the Comanches have a strong pass defense. Offensively, they return their

Rebuilding Waterloo fears Trojans' speed

MADISON — With an eye toward last year, it might come as welcome relief to the Waterloo Bulldogs to know that Ian Smith won't be starting in the Trojans' offensive backfield Friday.

But the Bulldogs won't have long to wait. Smith won't start on offense because he has missed a couple of practices. But head coach Don Smith said Ian will be in shortly thereafter — probably the second play.

Those from Waterloo who didn't know Ian Smith got a rude introduction last Sept. 18. He returned three interceptions for touchdowns and added two more rushing TDs. He had 171 yards rushing and caught two passes. His five touchdowns and two extra points were all the scoring in a 35-0 Trojan win.

"Until we see a kid like that run, there's no way we can prepare for him," said second-year Bulldog coach Sid Allen, who was 0-9 in his rookie year. "Again, we're not a very quick team. It's the same problem every year against Madison."

Allen certainly isn't making any grandiose predictions for this game or this season.

"We're sure not making any reservations for Bloomington (site of the state finals)," said Allen. "We're a little better in 0-9 point of view. I don't think we're 32 points better than last year."

Don Smith should have no problem getting the Trojans ready to play. The game will be the first-ever night game in Waterloo (7:30 p.m.). With Allen still looking for his first victory the Bulldogs figure to be fired up.

"We shouldn't be overconfident," said Smith. "We have a lot of young players ourselves. A couple of our seniors probably feel we should win, but we're eager to prove ourselves."

The Trojans were treated rudely when they were guests in Columbia last year. The Eagles won 49-6, but they were a state quarterfinal team far above where Waterloo is this year.

"The Columbia players were about three feet off the ground that night and we couldn't do much," said Smith. "I don't know what direction (Waterloo's) program is headed. But it's a big game for us. We have a tough schedule ahead of us. I would rather play a team that was 0-9. We'll make our mistakes because it's our first game. I would rather make mistakes against a team that isn't as likely to capitalize on them as the playoff teams.

Senior Derrick Treadway will start at quarterback, with senior Robbie Poston the backup. Quarterback-of-the-future, Federico Walker, a sophomore, will start Friday at tight end.

"(Senior) Craig Ingram and (sophomore) Tony Treadway will be real good backs for us, along with Smith," said Smith. "While the Bulldogs will try somehow to slow down the Trojans, they will also be trying to move the ball themselves. They had only 23 total yards against the Trojans in 1987."

"We're a little bigger in the offensive line," said Allen. "Our quarterback, Eric Maurer, can throw the ball a little bit. But overall we're not a much different team from last year."

Except they will be playing home games under the lights.

YMCA swim year starting Sept. 7

The Tri-City Area YMCA swim team will start its season on Sept. 7.

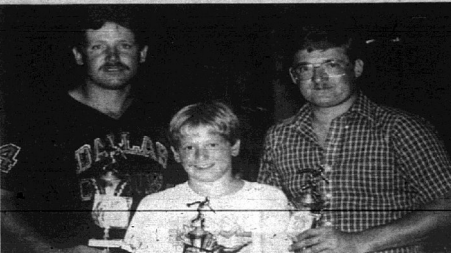

Practice will be held Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 4 to 5:30 p.m. Swimmers of all ability levels ages 6-18 are encouraged to try out and may join the team at any time during the six-month season.

Coach Janet Niles said the months of September and October are considered the preparatory phase. A lighter informal practice schedule consisting of gradual conditioning, intense stroke drills and goal-setting sessions will be emphasized during this phase.

Regular weekend meets with other YMCAs are included in the competition phase November through February. A full practice schedule is used to emphasize more intense conditioning. The team will prepare for the districts and state meets during the championship phase February and March.

Requirements for the team include the ability to swim one length of the pool and YMCA membership. The monthly fee of $20 for the first child and $10 for the second is also required. Any interested boy or girl may try out for the team one week without cost.

For additional information, call the YMCA at 876-7200.

State Senior Olympics preserved in time capsule

The Illinois Senior Olympics will still be around in the year 2088.

On July 4, a time capsule was buried just north of the east entrance to the Illinois State Capitol building during the centennial ceremony for the building. Among the items placed in the capsule, to be opened in 100 years, was the Illinois Senior Olympic program.

The packet contained "1988 Senior Olympics in Illinois" poster listing the regional and state games, a 1987 Illinois Senior Olympic record book, 1988 Illinois Senior Olympic XII brochure and entry form, a copy of 1987 House Resolution 909 presented to the 85th General Assembly honoring Illinois medalists from the first National Senior Olympics held in St. Louis and one each of the Illinois Senior Olympic medals (gold, silver and bronze).

Senior athletes will begin arriving in Springfield on Sept. 22 for this year's state games. This will be the 12th year of competition. The games will run through Sept. 25.

During that time, athletes from across the state will be competing for top awards in 53 events. This year's competition will have a 20K cycling race.

Besides the competition, there are social events. Registration begins at noon Sept. 22. There will be opening ceremonies and a social hour that evening. Competition begins on Sept. 23, with a "Las Vegas Night" that evening. There will be a dinner/dance on Sept. 24, with the final day of competition on Sept. 25.

For more information on how to be a part of the program, call or write Annette Fuchs, Illinois Senior Olympics, 1415 North Grand Ave., East, Springfield, Ill., 62702, 217-788-2284.

Athletes must be 55 years of age or older. This year's games will be qualifying games for the National Senior Olympics to be held June 19-24, 1989, in St. Louis.

Area participants in the games include Gus Lignoul, 60, Joyce Lignoul, 57, and Tom Belshe, 56.

Waterloo's home field is right behind a cemetery, an appropriate setting during the winless 1987 campaign. But Allen is hoping for at least some improvement and a partial resurrection. "Of course the kids prefer playing on Friday night," he said. "We practiced under the lights during the heat wave. It's a super system. But it's going to be hard to slow down Madison."

Park player release procedure clarified

The Granite City Park District would like to clarify the procedure for releasing players in the boys baseball and girls softball programs.

A child may be released from his or her team in one of two ways between Sept. 1 and Dec. 31.

1. A player release form is completed, signed by both the parent and manager, submitted to the park office and approved by the Rules and Protest Committee.

2. A player release form is completed which indicates the reason for the release signed by either the parent or manager and approved by the Rules and Protest Committee. After a decision is rendered by the committee, the parties involved have 30 days to contest the decision.

Further explanation can be obtained by calling the Wilson Park Office at 877-3059.

Monster Mopar Sunday at GIR

Gates will open at 8:30 a.m. Sept. 4 for the third annual Monster Mopar Sunday car show, swap meet and drag racing program at Gateway International Raceway.

Time trials will begin at 9 a.m. for the event, which will feature Chryslers, Plymouths, Dodges and DeSotos in quarter-mile heats for top cash prizes. Highlighting the event will be an appearance by Bill "Maverick" Golden, known as "King Of The Wheelstanders," in his 1,500-horsepower Blown Hemi-powered 1965 Dodge Little Red Wagon.

Golden has been performing for more than 25 years and still owns the Guinness World Record for the longest wheelstand, nearly 4,500 feet. He originated the term "wheelie," commonly used today as a nickname for a wheelstand.

General admission is $5. Children under 12 accompanied by a paying adult will be admitted free.

For more information, contact Smart Communications at 314-928-3311, Scott Sieveking at 314-296-0135 or Larry Peltis at 314-938-6666.

Co-captain

MICHELLE (MORGAN) LEVIN (right) of Granite City has been named co-captain of the 1988 Peru State (Neb.) College volleyball team by a vote of her teammates. Senior Pam Davis (left) is the other captain. Levin, a senior, is the Bobcats' career leader in assists.

Warriors

entire backfield of quarterback Larry Wyman and runners Jonathan Drake and Nehemia Sims.

The Warriors got one of their two wins of 1987 in the opener at Cahokia, 10-0. The 1986 Southwestern Conference champions had to rely on a big individual effort by Jamie Hogan (five interceptions, three touchdowns) to pull out a 27-0 win in a game that was 6-0 after three quarters.

So the Comanches have been a tough opening-night foe. Granite City will be changing defensively to a five-man front and what Yates hopes is a more aggressive style.

Yates' line is much reading as finding the ball and going after it," he said. "It's attack-and-purse football. But the best defense anyone can have is a good ground-control offense."

Toward that, Yates is hoping an offensive line featuring junior guards Joe Thomas (6-2, 180) and Bryan Neidhardt (6-0, 175) can pave the way. Both started at the end of 1987 as sophomores. Starting tackles figure to be senior Dan Grayson (6-2, 190) and junior Frank Vivod (6-1, 205) or junior Larry Hahne (6-1, 210). Junior Brad Massey (5-8, 190) will be at center.

We need Bobby Thomas to start for the sophomore team."

Senior co-captain Kory Burton (6-3, 178) will be at tight end with junior Matt Schmuck (6-1, 165) starting at split end. Junior Dennis Jolly (6-0, 180) would be used at tight end in a double tight end set.

Senior George Thomas (6-0, 210) will start at fullback. Juniors Tim and Terry Nohle (both 5-9, 150) are the top candidates at I-back, with senior Chris Bartling (5-11, 105) and sophomore Erik Lewis (5-11, 160) at wingback.

Defensively, projected starters in the line include senior co-captain Ali Mohsen (5-9, 165), Vivod, Grayson, Rich Dawes (6-3, 175) and Joe Thomas. Burton and George Thomas are at linebacker, with the Nohles, Bartling and junior Ken Wojtowicz (5-7, 140) in the secondary.

Missing is senior co-captain Jeff Kohler (5-10, 155), who started running Tuesday while recovering from a broken foot. Kohler is a projected starter in both the offensive and defensive backfield. Yates hopes Kohler and receiver Darryn Yates, the coach's son, are ready by the Belleville West game on Sept. 16. Yates has a knee injury.

"Other than that, we're pretty healthy," Ron Yates said. With senior Ben Szedlar out of town this weekend, Wallace will handle the punting. Burton will be the place-kicker.
